PREPAREDNESS.

There is much talk and a very strong probability that this government will spend one hundred millions of dollars each year for the next five years in building up a navy and strengthening the army.

Let's see what that means. It would mean for this state, if applied in building public roads:

Over two millions of dollars each year.

Over $285,000 for this county each year.

At $3,000 a mile that would build 95 miles of road in this county each year for five years. It has been estimated that we have about 500 miles of public roads in this county. At the rate stated it would mean that practically every mile of road in this county would be a good surfaced road inside of five years.

Some states have not so many as 96 counties, as has Tennessee. Some have a few more counties. In some states it would not require $3,000 a mile to build good roads.

Suppose some congressman should present a bill to congress calling for an expenditure of one hundred millions of dollars each year for five years for roads, how many votes could he get for it if he succeeded in bringing it to a vote? Certainly not enough to pass the measure.

Let's take a look at the need for such an expenditure for the army and navy.

Every one will admit that by the time the present war closes all the powers engaged will be so burdened with debt and reduced in men that another war, even in Europe, need not be expected short of fifty years, and the time will be much longer than that before this country need fear a war with any European power.

There has been some excitement among the jingos about Japan making war on the United States. Japan has a navy about half the size of ours. She has a population a little over half the size of this country. The United States certainly has resources that are fully six times that of Japan. Does it seem probable that Japan would pick a quarrel with Uncle Sam under such conditions?

Suppose this great country should build such a system of public roads as the proposed expenditure for war purposes would build in five years. It would be one of the strongest military moves the country could make and would be of untold benefit to the people at the same time.

In case of war such a system of roads would be to this country much what the good roads of Germany have been to that country in moving troops hurriedly from one part of the country to another. It is universally admitted that the good roads of Germany have played a very important part in winning victories and driving back the enemy. It would be the same in this country.

The whole trouble rests right here: It is the monied interests that want the expenditure for war and it is the common people that want the expenditure for roads. Every person knows how seldom the common people get what they want when the monied interests want some other thing.

Because of lack of organization and concentration of effort the common people will very likely go on bearing the burdens for many generations yet and the monied interests will continue to reap the profits.

A CONFESSION

Hopes Her Statement, Made Public, will Help Other Women.

Hines, Ala.—"I must confess," says Mrs. Eula Mae Reid, of this place, "that Cardui, the woman's tonic, has done me a great deal of good."

Before I commenced using Cardui, I would spit up everything I ate. I had a tired, sleepy feeling all the time, and was irregular. I could hardly drag around, and would have severe headaches continuously.

Since taking Cardui, I have entirely quit spitting up what I eat. Everything seems to digest all right, and I have gained 10 pounds in weight."

If you a victim of any of the numerous ills so common to your sex, it is wrong to suffer.

For half a century, Cardui has been relieving just such ills, as is proven by the thousands of letters, similar to the above, which pour into our office, year by year. Cardui is successful because it is composed of ingredients which act specifically on the woman's constitution, and helps build the weakened organs back to health and strength.

Cardui has helped others, and will help you, too. Get a bottle today. You won't regret it. Your druggist sells it.

Write to: Chattanooga Medicine Co., Ladies' Advisory Dept., Chattanooga, Tenn., for Special Instructions on your case and 64-page book, "Home Treatment for Women," sent in plain wrapper. NC 120

Even at this time, it is enough to bring a smile of derision to the face of any thinking person when we hear some fourth of July orator talk of a government "of the people, for the people and by the people." Yet, conditions are improving and the common people are getting more nearly what belongs to them all the time. Let's be glad of that and exert a more concentrated effort for what is due the common people.

Wonder if the irony or a Thanksgiving Proclamation issued by this great nation struck President Wilson. When we stop to think of the millions of rounds of ammunition that are being furnished the people of Europe with which to kill each other, our thanksgiving should be changed to sackcloth and ashes. Such hypocritical irony in the name of "neutrality" should bring the blush of shame to the cheek of every true American.

Did it ever occur to you what an odd piece of business much of this boasted war order business is? It is this way: We furnish the goods, then we furnish the money to pay for the goods and all we get is a promise to pay that bears about five and a half per cent interest. The entire transaction is based on one single word: "Confidence." Enough of that would move mountains for it is only another name for "Faith."

COST OF WAR.

Recent estimates of the cost of the war per day, not including Serbia and Bulgaria, are as follows: England $15,000,000, France $10,000,000, Russia $12,000,000, Germany and Austria $16,000,000, Turkey $5,000,000. At that rate the $500,000,000 loan recently negotiated by the allies would last England alone less than five weeks. What Italy is spending has not come to our notice, but there is talk of an Italian loan of $250,000,000 being placed in this country and it has been freely talked that the allies will have to place another loan in this country in the spring.

IKE WALTON'S PRAYER.

I crave, dear Lord,
No boundless hoard
Of gold and gear,
Nor jewels fine,
Nor land nor mine,
Nor treasure-heaps of anything—
Let but a little hut be mine
Where at the hearthstone I may hear
The cricket sing,
And have the shine
Of one glad woman's eyes to make,
For my poor sake,
Our simple home a place divine;
Just the wee cot—the cricket's chirr—
Love, and the smiling face of her.

I pray not that
Men tremble at
My power of place
And lordly sway,
I only pray for simple grace
To look my neighbor in the face
Full honestly from day to day—
Yield me his horny palm to hold,
And I'll not pray
For gold;

The tanned face, garlanded with mirth,
It hath the kindest smile on earth
The swart brow, diamonded with sweat
Hath never need of coronet.

And so I reach,
Dear Lord to Thee,
And do beseech
Thou givest me

The wee cot, and the cricket's chirr,
Love, and the glad, sweet face of her.

—James Whitcomb Riley.

AFTER THE WAR.

A Few Suggestions as to Some Things That May Be Expected.

We are publishing herewith information which is being seriously considered by men who are looking forward to entirely new international conditions after this war.

We call particular attention to the last paragraph of the article published below, as it is quite certain that, whichever group of nations may eventually win the present conflict, there will be formed two great international economic groups opposed to each other and perhaps opposed to the interests of the United States, unless our people soon take steps to defend our business interests through a revision of our present tariff laws.

As was truly said in our issue of September 15th, there will be great improvements in certain of our industries owing to the present stimulation caused by the necessity of finding ways to make goods we are not now able to secure in sufficient quantity from abroad, but we should not shut our eyes to the fact that there has been quite as much stimulation in England, much more in Germany and very much more in Russia, which latter country is determined to free itself from the economic dependence enforced on it for so many years by Germany.

Expert American skill and energy is already being planned for by Russia in combination with increased determination that its great natural resources shall be more fully exploited by and for its own people. Also; and this is a matter which we ought to get ready for, Germany will find itself at the close of this war largely shut out from the markets of France, England and Italy, and in such a position economically that the United States will be the only dumping ground it will have for its surplus products.

During the last tariff fight the Germans, who were over here for the sake of securing lower rates of duty for their manufactured goods, said openly that this market belonged to them and they were going to have it. They were then smart enough to secure about everything for which they asked, but this mistaken policy should not again be pursued.

Our people were promised, over and over again, that the so-called "Economic Freedom" would lower the price of practically everything we had to buy, but the actual result has been to increase the profits of the manufacturer in France, England and Germany and bring depression on our own people.

If it had not been for this war we would now be going through the greatest panic in American history.

No one knows just what the future will be, but it is reasonably certain that the war in Europe will last for some time yet and lead to serious domestic and labor troubles over there which will also spread to this country. And with the probability of even a still larger proportion of foreign laborers in this country who will INSIST on being fed, our people would best be thinking in time how these men are going to be kept at work at wages which will enable them to live according to American standards.

Our people here in Cumberland county will never go back to what they call the "good old times," when they worked for 40 cents a day and took their pay in corn, nor make and lay rails for 80 cents a hundred. They are doing better through their improved agricultural methods, but their best customers are and will continue to be the "other fellow" in the great manufacturing cities now springing up in the Southland, and which will continue to increase if our legislators can overcome their prejudice against the manufacturing classes and realize that a customer in the next city or state is a much better customer than one who is 3000 to 5000 miles away.

ESPERANTO IN THE WAR.

"The 1st of August, 1914, was the day set for the Tenth International Congress in Paris. About 5,000 delegates from all over the world were expected. The German special train for 500 participants was already prepared when the outbreak of the war destroyed all efforts for a better understanding between nations.

"Many concluded that the war of nations had taken away from Esperanto its justification. A peaceful understanding between civilized nations was impossible, therefore no international auxiliary language was needed. But Esperanto proved its usefulness at the very outbreak of hostilities. Indeed, the war has shown Esperanto to be indispensable. Many German Esperantists had not waited for the special train to Paris, but had gone to France before the war began. They now found themselves in great danger. But Esperanto proved a powerful aid. Wherever they displayed their badges, the green Esperanto star, they were treated with the greatest courtesy, although they did not conceal their German nationality. On returning through excited Belgium, the Esperanto star proved to be their talisman. The unfriendly, even hostile attitude of the railroad officials changed at once on noting that an Esperantist stood before them and questions in Esperanto, when they were understood, were answered in the most courteous manner, while questions in French, when asked by a German, received no answer or brought on abusive remarks.

"In the course of the war itself in Belgium and in France, where knowledge of Esperanto is widespread, the usefulness of our international language was shown. In the French prison camps there is frequent occasion for its use.

"Esperanto is used by all nations in the Red Cross hospitals.

"But Esperanto will soon reach greater importance when once peace has been made. Then Germany and Austria-Hungary may be expected to establish closer industrial relations with Turkey, Roumania and Bulgaria. A customs union will be called into being in which Belgium and Serbia, should they still be independent states, will join. Probably Holland will join also. The most powerful industrial union which the world has yet seen will arise. Turkey, Belgium and Roumania opened up by German and Austrian capital, will furnish needed raw material to German factories. There will be an over supply of opportunities for labor, of unused lands and of capital, the factors needed for production of goods of all kinds. For this Esperanto is indispensable. Austria-Hungary needs it already for its polyglot population. German is too hard to learn to be reasonably expected to become the common language. The formation of a new and great industrial union will be facilitated through introduction by all the members of a course in Esperanto, as an auxiliary language, into the schools. In a short time the different people will easily be able to understand each other." X X

Pomona

Mrs. F. H. Washburn left Thursday for Shirley, a suburb of Boston, Mass., where she will be the guest of parents and friends until after the holidays.

Mrs. G. M. Martin, of Crossville, visited her daughter, Mrs. J. T. Weaver, last week.

Two weddings of recent date are a record from Pomona—that of Ernest Bright and Miss Annie Campbell, of Pleasant Hill, and James Hughes and Miss Ella Turner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isham Turner. Mr. and Mrs. Bright are at home at present with Mr. and Mrs. Russell Brown, while Mr. and Mrs. Hughes are with the religious sect known as the Holy Rollers, who recently held meetings in this neighborhood.

Mr. and Mrs. David Fleming, of Nashville, who were guests last week of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Benedict, left Thursday for Maine, where they have a chicken ranch and intend to make their future home. Mrs. Fleming is affectionately remembered here as Miss Kate Goffrey, and the best wishes of a host of friends go with the young couple to their new home.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Lemert were guests last Thursday of Professor and Mrs. W. E. Wheeler, of Pleasant Hill.

The immortal lines, "What is so rare as a day in June?" could appropriately be changed to "What is so rare as an Autumn day on the Cumberland?" This is truly the golden season—the crowning of the year; and wrapt in the golden halo of her beauty, we reap the full fruition of the sweet promise of Spring.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

The First District Sunday School Convention met at Tollett's Chapel Saturday, October 23, 1915.

All the Sunday schools of the district were represented except the Sunday school at Woody and the one at Mayland.

The program was a good strong one and Rev. S. W. Tollett, Rev. H. C. Duncan, Esq. J. J. Tabor, B. L. Duncan and J. V. Wright were the speakers.

A bounteous dinner had been prepared and to this part of the program all did ample justice.

It is encouraging to know that the work done in the Sunday school will bring fruit as is to be seen at Tollett's Chapel as a result of the labors of such good citizens as "Uncle Gid" Barnwell, Jones Tabor, Sam Tollett and others who have made that neighborhood what it is.

B. L. Duncan, of Creston, was elected District President, and A. Lee, of Mayland, District Secretary for the coming year.

J. V. Wright,
Gen. Secretary.
